Is Your Farm Website Working?

A 10-minute self-check. Pull up your website on your phone, then Google your farm's name. Answer yes or no, then count your yes answers.

Cultivate
local food marketing

		Yes	No
Getting found
1.	When you Google your farm's name, does your Google listing show up with the right hours, address or pickup spot, and phone number?	☐	☐
2.	Does your Google listing have photos from the past year?	☐	☐
3.	Does your website show up on the first page when you Google your farm's name?	☐	☐
4.	Do your website and your Google listing list the same hours?	☐	☐
On a phone
5.	Does your site load in a few seconds on your phone?	☐	☐
6.	Can you read it without pinching or zooming?	☐	☐
7.	Without scrolling much, can a stranger tell what you sell and where to get it?	☐	☐
8.	Can someone tap your phone number or email to reach you?	☐	☐
Buying from you
9.	Can a customer order or reserve online, or at least see clearly how to buy?	☐	☐
10.	Are prices, or a price range, on the site?	☐	☐
11.	Are pickup days, pickup spots, and delivery area spelled out?	☐	☐
12.	Are sold-out or out-of-season items marked?	☐	☐
Keeping in touch
13.	Is there a way to join your email list on your website?	☐	☐
14.	Have you emailed your customers in the last 30 days?	☐	☐
15.	Have you updated anything on your site in the last 3 months?	☐	☐

Your score: _____ yes out of 15

13–15 yes	You're in good shape. Fix the few no's and keep it up.
8–12 yes	A few things are getting in the way. Start with the section where you had the most no's.
0–7 yes	It may be time for a fresh start. A refresh is usually less work than patching an old site.

Want a second set of eyes?
The Marketing Checkup ($350) is this list done for you, plus a 1-hour call and a written

cultivatelocalfood.com/book
(317) 528-0078

hello@cultivatelocalfood.com